Storage, Safety and Supervision

- During breaks, there will be no supervision from the organisation. Coordination between makers is, of course, possible.
- The organisation is not responsible for loss of personal belongings or damage when no supervision is present.
- At night, all tents must be emptied and will be closed off. Only the tables and benches may remain; the contents of the tents are not insured.
- If you participate on multiple days, you may store materials and technical equipment inside the Tetem building, within the designated areas.

Damage and Insurance

- If damage occurs during opening hours caused by a participant/visitor, a claim can only be made on the insurance if the full contact details and phone number of the person involved have been recorded.

Sustainability

- We attach great importance to proper waste separation.
- There is a special recycling tent where waste must be separated and disposed of.
- We expect makers to actively contribute to this.

Registration for the open call can be completed via the registration form. The registration form can be emailed to MFT@tetem.nl before March 15th, 2027.
